TONIGHT'S DRESS: FORMAL

United Nations On Board Maasdam

Nowhere else is the term "United Nations" better served than on board one of Holland America Line's ships. Here, we prove that people of many nations, religions, and beliefs can work and live together, not only adequately, but very well indeed. Ask any employee of Holland America Line what his or her fondest memory of life at sea is. They will tell you it is the joy of meeting so many diverse people. On board we celebrate the national holidays of the Netherlands, India, England, the Philippines, Indonesia, the United States, and Canada. Each celebration is different and accorded all respect. Religion also plays a large part in the lives of many shipboard personnel. Our staff includes the Catholic, Muslim, Protestant, Hindu and Jewish faiths, just to name a few. All religions are respected, and time and room are set aside for all to worship as they see fit. Respect is probably the key to the harmony that is evident to all who sail our ships, as crew members and as guests. We hope you enjoy and explore the rich heritage that all of us on board bring to you.
