OUR HISTORY—CLASS OF 1932

Away back in January, 1928, a small group of eight or nine eighth-graders passed the last of the preliminaries and became Freshmen. That's just the way it happened! We took extra classes during the first half of the year and in January began the first high school schedule of our lives. Some, wishing to do the thing up right took more than four subjects, and by doing so all through high school graduated last June, or were qualified to do so. The next September found our class greatly increased. Somehow, we seemed to acquire countless numbers from, well, just everywhere. Our first year of high school passed away with nothing more exciting than a Freshman Party.

A year later, shortly after regents, we moved into the new building, and then we did begin to feel our importance! That year we seemed to become still more cosmopolitan. Pupils came from other schools, and some of our own, seeing the face of the Future far too dark in C. H. S., dropped out. Regents play havoc, too, with otherwise smoothly running courses. Some Freshmen, a few points behind us caught up, and others, upon whom Latin or some fate had laid a detaining hand, fell back. But they weren't really sad as they joined our ranks, for we claimed them all, "the more the merrier."

When the spring of 1929 arrived, day light saving time went into effect, and the high school put in a cry for different school hours. Now let me pass quickly and quietly over the Strike, but I don't think there are many of us now, who don't have, tucked away somewhere, a pleasant memory of the soothing waters of old Chautauqua, tennis rackets, warm sun and pop bottles, made more exciting by passing recollections of thoroughly disgruntled school teachers.

A short time later the park began to lure the students there at noon hours. The miniature golf course was just opened and we were interested. Then came the last day before regents. Some of us were already at the park; others soon arrived, when the Pier Ballroom burst into flames. Well, again we deserted our school room. Truly, we Sophomores had neglected our studies.

But now, lest you get the wrong impression of us, I must say that we worked diligently and earned every mark we received. We had our class meetings and serious moments just as we should.

The Junior year dawned bright and clear; we were all lined up with heavy schedules, when faintly, a gleam of light broke across our horizon. Next year we would be Seniors. That fact, however, soon took a back seat in our minds. Some of the class sent for rings and pins, the rest decided to wait until next year. This year saw us begin to grow up and blossom out into really grown-up society. We frequented dances and parties which before had seemed to frown upon us. We discussed the possibilities of a Junior play, but due to an already crowded program, the plan was rejected. As June drew near, some discovered that it would be possible to graduate, but the thought of deserting the class of '32 seemed to decide the matter, and most of them waited. We Juniors helped prepare for Graduation, especially, I believe, by gathering daisies to decorate the stage. So the Junior year and the summer vacation flew by, and the Seniors faced the last year at Celoron. We found that our class of twenty or twenty-one, was the largest ever yet to graduate here.

After several class meetings and discussions we decided to wear caps and gowns. This was only the beginning. We soon learned that a Senior has a very busy year. Mrs. Hatch, who after four years of advising, knew us by heart, often came to our rescue in a time of stress.

But now the year has passed, and we wish to thank every teacher who has so valiantly labored with us. Some of those years may have been long and uncertain, but we have triumphed.

All through school we have been a happy-go-lucky group, traveling together and turning to our teachers when a problem was too difficult for us to solve. Now our ways must part. We are sailing out of the harbor onto the deep with Experience as a teacher and only the Fates to decide whether that sea of the Future shall be calm or stormy.

—Alice Thornton.

IT'S EASY TO GET ADS?

Have you ever tried to secure ads during this depression? If you haven't, you certainly don't know what you've missed.

One day, I determined to go down town for the purpose of getting ads for the "Pioneer." I took last year's Annual with me and went. When I arrived at my destination, I waited for a moment to summon up my courage, and then with knees trembling, my head throbbing, and mouth dry, I walked in and boldly asked the clerk if I could see the manager. The manager was busy, but would I care to wait, as he would be at liberty in a few moments? Then for a nice long wait of forty-five minutes in the stifling heat of that store!

At last the manager appeared and I stated my question, asking if he would be interested in placing an advertisement in our Senior Annual at Celoron. He asked innumerable questions concerning prices, sizes of ads, my school and other things. By that time, I was rather exasperated, for I had wasted practically an hour. I handed him the slip to sign, for I was positive that he was going to give me a three dollar ad. Instead, he said, "Well, I'm sorry, but I can't do it. Maybe next year I'll give you an ad." And that was that!

With a sense of deep discouragement, I humbly and meekly departed, but my feelings were far from humble! If you think I wasn't boiling inside, you're greatly mistaken. My thoughts were running in this channel, "Why that old ———— wasting my valuable (?) time and not even giving me a measly dollar and a half ad!"

The next man that I interviewed was a little more encouraging. There I obtained a small ad,—dollar and a half size. But don't think I got it without an argument. Although I felt very foolish, I emerged triumphant, despite the snickerings and amused glances of two flighty office girls.

The following is part of the conversation that ensued:

"Yes, I know, my dear child, but things are quiet as a church around here. Not more than three or four customers come in here in a day."

"Well, now's the time to advertise when business is so poor. Let people know you're here and what you've got to sell."

"I know, but—"

"Think of the returns you'll get from this advertising. This annual will reach the hands of hundreds of the suburban people who come into town to buy supplies! Won't you reconsider and give me even a small ad?"

"Well, I guess you're too good a salesman. Put me down for a small one."

These incidents are typical of those encountered during my sojourn in the business district.

The fame and ability of Jeanette and I have spread all over the country. We have received many offers and more are pouring in. The "Saturday Evening Post," "American," "Colliers," "Woman's Home Companion" and others have written to us, imploring us to hasten to their company and join the advertising staff. But, since positions are so scarce during this depression, we are leaving them to someone else who we feel will more greatly appreciate them.

—Marjorie Paddock.

YOUR SCHOOL DOCTOR

OUT OF THE HARBOUR, ON-TO THE DEEP

At this particular commencement, a time when past success is rewarded and future attainments are hoped for, the graduates of '32, eager and unafraid, are ready to sound the call that shall take them from us, leaving the dearest memories of school days spent together, as they pass "Out of the Harbour, Out on the Deep." Rising in a mist from the deep and monstrous sea of life are the mighty mysteries of our eternal world. Each is an open gateway to opportunity, only partly known, partly explored, and partly mapped. Every Senior, prepared by faithful and earnest study through these years, is ready to see the best opportunity for him, to have the courage to seize it and the diplomacy to use it.

Beloved Seniors: Parting from you is not an easy task. We shall miss our good friends who have so kindly given us their advice, but we are all glad and proud that you have proved yourselves so honorable and successful. You have received the foundation for your work in the broader fields of life, and now you will struggle toward the one longing and desire that has dominated your life—the desire that will be at the bottom of your achievement. Always have faith in God and in man, for faith is not discouraged nor blinded by the mountains of difficulties—it sees through them—sees the goal beyond. "To him that believeth, all things are possible."

You, the graduating class of 1932, are the hope and inspiration of the fellow students who follow you.

—Lucy P. Nelson,
Class of '33

KAPPA PHI SOCIETY

The Kappa Phi Society has had a very enjoyable and successful year although some of their many achievements have not been made so noticeable as yet.

On May 6, after the Junior Class Play, the Kappa Phi sponsored a dance. The White Owl's furnished the music and the evening proved to be an enjoyable one.

The Kappa Phi members are eagerly looking forward to a house-party which is to be held this summer on Chautauqua Lake. The girls will also motor to Findley Lake in two weeks to enjoy picnicking and bathing.

Kathryn Bailey has been received into the society and the girls are proud to announce their three new pledges, Marian Wistran, Virginia Anderson and Lillian Forsner. The initiation will be held at the Amidon residence on June 9.

—Secretary.

PSI THETA TAU

A most successful year has been spent by the Psi Theta Tau, for a deep bond of friendship and a feeling of sisterhood have been established.

New members initiated since January are: Dorothy Anderson, Vivian Thornbald, Doris Gotts, Maxine Vickstrom, and Alvera Wynkoop. The total number of members at the present time is fourteen.

Several social affairs have been sponsored by the sorority during the past year. A party was held during the month of January, and a dance, during the month of May. The chaperones for the May party were Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Anderson, Miss Lutzhoff, and Miss Baker.

Sunday afternoon, May 28, a picnic was held at Point Gratiot on Lake Erie. Tennis, boating, swimming, and dancing were enjoyed by all. Miss Lutzhoff and Miss Baker were invited to chaperone.

We wish to express our appreciation to Miss Lutzhoff and Miss Totman for their splendid advice during the past year.

SIGMA GAMMA PHI

The Sigma Gamma Phi Fraternity enjoyed a very successful year, not only financially but socially.

A football dance was held for the players of Celoron and Lakewood high schools after their annual game.

The annual Valentine dance was held in the school auditorium, February 13, 1932. As the saying goes, "a wonderful time was had by all." Tony Minavio furnished the music.

The fraternity presented the high school with an electric scoreboard which should aid the players greatly while on the court.

The 3rd Annual Class "B" Tournament was held March 18, 1932. Nine teams competed for the "Collins Cup" Lakewood defended and won it for their second straight year.

"The Wild Oats Boy" was presented by the fraternity May 5 and 6. A very good crowd was in attendance and the play proved to be the outstanding event of the year.

The policy of providing refreshments for the rival basketball teams was continued throughout the season.

Our new members are: Robert Buckleau, Richard Greenwood, Gerald Terry, Todd Lane, and Gerald Blanchard.

CHI IOTA OMEGA

Members taken into the Alpha Chapter in 1931-32 are: Donald Hart, Carlton Faley, Joe Venus, Donald Williams, Elmer Seiberg.

The Alpha Chapter held a Basketball Dance at the school the night after the last Celoron-Lakewood Game.

The annual banquet was held at Coe's Inn, Lakewood, on the last day of February. The speakers of the evening were Henry G. Schrader, Milton W. Brown, C. Roger Johnson, and Carl Jones.

The chapter presented to the school a home room scholarship award to be held by the room which, at the end of each five week period, has the highest standing. It was won the first time by Mr. Spencer's room. It has remained there since.

ORPHEUS SOCIETY

The Orpheus Society held its first meeting in the studio Friday afternoon, May 20, with Mrs. Willis presiding. An election of officers took place, the following officers being elected: Vincent Mallare, president; Marian Wistran, vice president; and Marie Anderson, secretary and treasurer.

The society was organized for the purpose of continuing the interest of the graduates in music and of fostering an interest in school musical activities.

All members of the high school glee club and orchestra who have earned emblems are eligible to membership. Hereafter emblems are to be awarded by Orpheus.

It is our aim to make this society a marked success and we hope to have many good times along with the work. Don't you hope to win an emblem?

Marie Anderson,
Secretary and Treasurer.

During the Easter vacation Mrs. Willis had the five best members of the Music Appreciation Class take a series of tests to determine whom should represent Celoron at the music conference held at Cleveland.

Dorothy Wilson won the trip, beating Clare Chamberlin by a narrow margin of two points. She had many interesting adventures, and we deeply regret that we do not have the room to print her report.

The Musical Organizations of Celoron High School, namely: the Glee Clubs and the Orchestra, enjoyed a very successful year under the direction of Mrs. Willis. Among the outstanding events of the year was the incomparable manner in which the combined glee clubs presented the operetta "Up in the Air." The Orchestra performed admirably at Fredonia and the glee clubs also earned their round of applause. These organizations are indeed a credit to our school system and Mrs. Willis deserves much credit for the way she has bettered the musical standards of Celoron High School.

Helen Berghel will be delighted to know that Helen Anderson has left her gum chewing ability to her.

To the Juniors whom we haven't included in the above, we leave all the chewing gum, cellophane, candy and pencils, to be divided equally.

The Junior Class will be glad to hear that we have left them numerous foot-steps to follow in. We hope your shoes fit.

To Miss Baker we leave all the sore-fingers, warts, cuts, burns, and what have you, for the next year.

Mac, Bachelor, and "Si" will have their labors considerably lightened by the new polishing cloths, consisting of old socks which all we Seniors have left to them. They are also free to use all the gum wrappers they find in this school to start fires with.

The faculty, including Mr. Schrader, will be greatly relieved to realize that we have finally made our exit through the portals of Celoron High School and will cause no more sleepless nights and headaches.

We do hereby make, constitute, and appoint Mr. Oberg to be our executor of this, our Last Will and Testament.

JOKES

Roger Lane: "I hear you stayed in the haunted house last night. What happened?"

Billy Gisel: "About twelve o'clock a ghost came through the wall just as if there were no wall there."

Roger Lane: "What did you do?"

Billy Gisel: "I went through the other wall the same way."

Roger J.: "Look here; How long must I wait for the half portion of duck I ordered?"

Waiter: "Till somebody orders the other half. We can't go out and kill half a duck."

Era S.: "Well, I knocked 'em cold in Latin, all right."

Mike N.: "What did you get?"

Era S.: "Zero."

"Tennie," said Mrs. Leet to her cook, "I wonder if the pudding is done. Stick a knife in it and see if it comes out clean."

A few minutes later: "It comes out wonderful, ma'am," announced Tennie, "so I've stuck all the other knives in it."

"Have you given the goldfish fresh water, Alberta?"

"No, they haven't finished the water I gave them yesterday."

Oliver, while trout fishing had hooked a very small trout. Excitedly he played it, reeling it in after a moment or two until it was rammed tight against the end of the rod. Glowing with the warmth of conquest, he turned to his father.

"I've got him! I've got him!" he cried. "Now what do I do?"

"Climb up the pole and stab him to death," replied the disgusted father.

Vin Mallare (seeing his first windmill): "Say, Uncle Charley, that's some electric fan you have out there cooling the cows."

You may be a fine, upstanding, respectable citizen, but to a banana skin you're just a flop.

Virgie: "Is it dangerous to drive with one hand?"

Kenny: "You bet; more than one man has run into a church doing it."

Doug Kropf: "Did you get that speedin' feller's license number?"

Chip Carlson: "Nope, he was hittin' it up too goldinged fast to read it. But that was a pert-lookin' brown-eyed gal he had with him, wasn't it?"

Doug Kropf: "Sure was, an' did ye notice that dimple in her cheek when she smiled at us?"

Kenny H.: "I thought you had a date with Mary tonight."

Harold S.: "I did, but when I saw her leave the house with someone else just as I was arriving, I got so disgusted that I called it off."

Teacher: "Frederick, what does the buffalo on a nickel stand for?"
Frederick: "Because there isn't room for him to sit down."

Young Husband: "Sweetheart, what did you do with that rubber plant Aunt Jennie gave us?"

Wifie: "Why, honey, I put it up-stairs in the window. Why do you ask?"

Young Husband: "Oh, no reason at all. I was just wondering what you put in this salad."

It had always been Lattimore's ambition to own a fur coat, and after years of skimping he had achieved it. On the first day of its possession, as he was strutting down the street, a friend approached him. "Moh'nin', Dick," the friend remarked, his teeth chattering from the wintry blasts. "Pretty col' day, ain't she?"

"Ah really cain't tell 'bout the weather," Lattimore replied carelessly, "Ah ain't looked at de paper today."

Father: "No, I will not have my daughter tied for life to a stupid fool."

Elm. C.: "Then, sir, don't you think I had better take her off your hands?"

Agent: "Well, Miss Adams, how do you like the electric washer by this time?"

Miss Adams: "To tell the truth, I can't seem to make it work. Every time I get in it, those paddles kind of knock my feet out from under me."

Teacher: "Jack, who was Ann Boleyn?"

Buck: "Ann Boleyn was a flat-iron, sir."

Teacher: "What do you mean?"

Buck: "Well, our history book says, 'Henry having disposed of Catherine, pressed his suit with Ann Boleyn'."

Dr. Lindbeck (at medical examination): "Say a-a-a-ah."

Tony: "No spika da Ingieese."

BEGINNING ANOTHER CENTURY

When the New York State legislature in 1831 was asked to charter a bank at Jamestown, assemblymen and senators replied with remarks about "the wilderness of Chautauque."

Sneers of that kind were not enough to discourage three of the young promoters of the bank. Alvin Plumb was only 25 years old when he organized a company that built and operated The Chautauque, first steamboat on the lake. Richard P. Marvin at 28 years of age was beginning the long campaign that finally brought a railroad to Jamestown. It was not strange that these ambitious young men should join with Elial T. Foote, only a few years older, in establishing the first bank in the county.

The bank they founded has served the public for over one hundred years. Chautauqua County is no longer a wilderness. Ambitious young people of today can begin their careers with the advice and assistance of this experienced institution.
